

MOD AND SLIGHTLY MAD: Fashion is fun for everyone this fall as witness these models who will appear in a benefit show Thursday, Oct. 24 at 8:30 p. m. at the Statler Hilton Inn, Benton Harbor. From left are: Mrs. Kenneth Ledyard, Miss Joanne Myers, (Miss Stevensville of 1968), and Miss Mary Grzesick, all of Stevensville. Mrs. Ledyard's costume is a three-piece Italian knit in navy blue with white shell and red trim. Miss Myers is wearing part of a four-piece pants outfit with Nehru-type jacket in white; and Miss Grzesick's fake leopard coat tops a red dress banded with the make-believe fur, and hip-length vinyl boots which attach to girdle garters. The show is sponsored by the Stevensville Blossomtime League to raise money for the 1969 Stevensville's queen contest. All fashions are being provided by Terry's of Fairplain Plaza. Donations are $1.50 and tickets may be purchased at the door the night of the show. (Staff photo)

Tired, Happy Astronauts Come Home From Space

‘Apollo’ Hailed As Big Success

ABOARD USS ESSEX (AP) — Apollo 7's astronauts flew their "magnificent flying machine" home from the heavens today and gave searchers 20 anxious minutes before they were found floating upside down in the Atlantic Ocean.

Within an hour, Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and Walter Cunningham were deposited by helicopter aboard the deck of this aircraft carrier, stationed 330 miles south-south-east of Bermuda.

They splashed into the sea just five miles from the Essex, climaxing a sensational 11-day space adventure that put the United States firmly on the doorstep of the moon.

The bearded trio appeared shaky and tired as they stepped onto a red carpet on the deck of the carrier. But they waved happily to acknowledge the cheers of hundreds of sailors and a brisk "Anchors Aweigh" played by a ship's band.

Physicians reported after a quick examination that the three felt fine and were in good

"I salute the three of you as well as the thousands of men on the space team," the President said. "We here in the Capitol and all over this country and the world are very proud of you this morning."

Eisele replied: "Thank you very much, Mr. President. It was a real pleasure and an honor."

Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) were elated over the flight results.

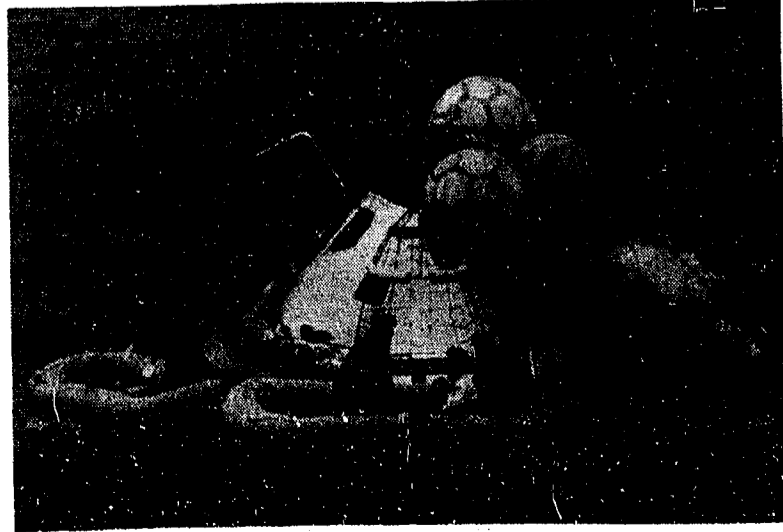

"Apollo 7 goes into my book as a perfect mission," said Air Force Lt. Gen. Samuel Phillips, Apollo program manager. "We accomplished 101 per cent of our objectives. We did everything we set out to do and added a few things as we went along."

Phillips said Apollo 7 has opened the way to a possible around the moon flight by the three-man Apollo 8 crew in December. He added that decision will not be made until mid-November after all results of this flight have been evaluated.

The wives of the three space-men were overjoyed at the near-perfect flight and homecoming and all commented on the long beards as the astronauts appeared on television. They all watched the landing

BERRIEN STARTS PROBE INTO ADC FUND PAYMENTS

Corrections In Program Said Coming

Social Service Spending Hits $8 Million

By BRANDON BROWN
Staff Writer

Wesley Bowerman, Berrien Social Services director, told Berrien supervisors Monday his and Prosecutor John Hammond's office are conducting an "intensive investigation" into ADC fund use.

Neither Bowerman, who left the supervisor meeting, nor Hammond would elaborate, but Finance Chairman Ivan Price told supervisors "there's something going on that'll be corrected, I'm sure of that."

Investigation results are expected to be known in the near future.

Announcement of the investigation came during a report by Bowerman on 1967 Social Services operations and quizzing by several supervisors on what they called high Aid to Dependent Children payments.

ALMOST $8 MILLION
ADC payments, totaling $2.65 million, were second on the list behind Medicaid costs estimated at $3.5 million. Total costs for all Social Services programs in 1967 is "approximately eight million dollars," Bowerman reported.

Final figures were not available for Medicaid charges, he said.

ADC payments for July 1, 1965 to July 1, 1966—the previous reporting period—totalled about $1.9 million, Bowerman said. The increase to $2.65 million is the result of a higher case load and removal of a $240 per family monthly ADC ceiling by the state legislature in January, 1967, he added.

The cost of ADC is higher for 1967 but all others except Medicaid are lower, Bowerman said.

The county's direct share of all costs, however, was only $246,285.92 partly because of a state-local cost share of roughly 9 to 1 for some expenses and federal cost sharing for others.

Bridgman City Supervisor August Piehl, quoting from a story in this newspaper Friday of a man alleged to be $6,367 behind in support payments for children on ADC, demanded to know what's being done about fathers in arrears.

Said Bowerman: "We're working on them... working very closely with the prosecutor's office."

Benton Harbor City Supervisor Walter Miller cited an ADC family that he said should be investigated.

Bowerman asked to be told of such cases.

He explained his department cannot withhold child support payments from women whose husband's don't pay. Since the husband's payment goes to Lansing and the women get paid anyway, "I'm sure that very few of the women will

Ex-Wife Says She's Been Paid

Branscumb Makes Support Payments 'Direct'

The ex-wife of Benton Harbor NAACP President Will Branscumb told the Berrien county of the court Monday he has been making child support payments to her directly, and that she "excuses" an alleged arrearage of nearly $6,000.

At the same time, a circuit court show cause order was served Monday on another divorced husband whose former wife led a shut-in demonstration of ADC mothers against the county social services department for more public welfare assistance.

The order was served on Owen Hampton, 1875 Roberts, Benton township, instructing him to show the court why he should not be held in contempt for being $4,609.35 behind in $51-per-week support payments for three children.

His former wife, Zenovia Hampton, head of the local unit of the National Welfare Rights Organization, led the demonstration in the courthouse hallways for increased aid for school clothing. Two St. Joseph police officers, including Chief Tom Gillespie, were injured in a melee that developed Sept. 18. Hampton is to appear before Judge Karl F. Zick on Nov. 12 at 9:30 a.m.

ORDERED TO APPEAR

Branscumb was ordered to appear in court on the same day. He was alleged to be $5,895 in arrears as of Oct. 11, 1968, in support payments for two children. He also is alleged to be $469 in arrears in paternity payments for three illegitimate children.

Wesley Bowerman said today support payment deductions have been made from ADC payments to Branscumb's ex-wife, indicating that the NAACP leader could be making payments directly to her. He said direct payment from one divorced parent to another is unusual, and that virtually all such court-ordered payments are made through the friend of the court's office.

Bowerman, however, said he could not determine how much Branscumb has paid to his former wife, and that such information probably will be brought out at the Nov. 12 show cause hearing.

WRITTEN STATEMENT
Branscumb's former wife, from whom he was awarded a divorce February 1, 1961, presented a written statement for the court records in which she stated:

"I, Marine (also shown as Marie in court records) Branscumb, do hereby excuse the existing arrearage of $5,915 through October 18, 1968, due for the support of my children from Will."

SJ YOUTH ARRESTED

Allege Boy's Hands Burned As 'Lesson'

A warrant was authorized yesterday for the arrest of an 18-year-old St. Joseph youth for allegedly burning the hands of a child to teach him not to play with matches. The charge is assault and battery.

The warrant is against Lee Allen Bruneel, 18, of 920 Price street.

The child is 4-year-old Michael Loewen who set fire to his mother's home at 1212 Mohawk lane Oct. 8, before his mother Mrs. Mary Loewen returned home from work. Extensive damage has forced the family to live elsewhere temporarily.

When St. Joseph police learned of the burns on the boy's hand last week, they had the mother bring Michael to the police station. He was then taken to a physician to be treated for second and third degree burns on each hand.

Police said each of the burns was about the size of a half-dollar.

Assistant Berrien Prosecutor Tat Parish, who authorized the warrant, said the charge was assault and battery rather than child neglect, because the latter charge must relate to an adult or person in authority.

Bruneel was described as a friend of a teenage child of Mrs. Loewen.

Following the house fire, the mother was charged with child neglect and sentenced to a $10 fine plus cost.

Oil Refinery Dispute Could Affect Election

A hot political controversy involves the most serious disagreements over the federal government's oil import program in the 9½-year history of oil import controls. The dispute threatens to become a major factor in the presidential election in the New England area, and possibly in major oil producing states of the West as well.

Involved primarily is the proposal by Occidental Petroleum Co. of Los Angeles to build a $145 million oil refinery, storage complex and deepwater port which would operate entirely on foreign crude oil. Such an operation requires approval from both the Commerce and Interior departments.

What presents the controversy is the proposed size of the refinery and the effect it would have on the domestic oil industry. Imported oil delivered to Maine would run about $1.35 a barrel less than domestic crude oil.

Occidental wants to process 300,000 barrels a day of crude oil — more than half as much foreign crude as all the refineries east of the Rockies presently are permitted to import. The proposed refinery is heavily supported by New England governors and Maine's Sen. Edmund Muskie, Democratic vice presidential candidate.

Opposed are at least three governors of oil-producing states — Connally of Texas, Love of Colorado and McKeithen of Louisiana. In Texas alone it has been estimated the effect of the new refinery, if import quotas remain unchanged, would be a loss of 100,000 barrels a day.

Interior Secretary Udall would have to decide whether to increase the foreign import quota, or take the Occidental capacity away from other refineries and keep the present quota.

It is interesting that the oil import quota system was instituted by Congress to protect the domestic oil industry from the cheaper crude oil. But the Interior Dept. in recent years has been allocating exemptions for such reasons as boosting the local economy and controlling air pollution.

As in all such decisions involving major ramifications in one of the nation's leading industries those who must make the ultimate decisions in the Occidental case are on the receiving end of heavy political pressures from both sides of the controversy.

Whether one man or a small group of men should possess the power to make decisions affecting the economic life of major industries is a point not under discussion, but one which may be more important than all the rest of the controversy. The power should perhaps be restricted to Congress itself.

Another important factor in the discussion is preservation of America's petroleum reserves. Maybe it's a good thing to be buying overseas, protecting the nation's home sources of oil for an uncertain future that seems constantly hovering between war and peace.

Cunard's Royal Liners

An illustrious queen is retiring, but her successor will ascend the Cunard Line's throne after an interregnum of only two months. The Queen Elizabeth is scheduled to arrive at its final mooring in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., on Nov. 30. Then, on Jan. 17, the Queen Elizabeth 2 will make her maiden voyage from Southampton to New York.

The old Queen's trip to Fort Lauderdale will be made without passengers but with a Cunard master on the bridge and a Cunard crew. For Commodore Geoffrey Thripleton Marr, the occasion will have a double sadness. He will be handing over the second of the great Queens (the Queen Mary was retired last year) and will be bringing to an end the line of Cunard commanders.

The Mary and the Elizabeth were distinguished warships as well as passenger liners. During World War II, the two of them carried more than 1.5 million troops, lending credence to the late Sir Percy Bate's belief that their achievement shortened the war in Europe by a whole year. The Elizabeth, launched the same month that Britain entered the war, did not make her first commercial voyage until October 1946.

The new Queen is shorter and lighter but somewhat taller than her two forerunners. QE2's passenger capacity of 2,025 persons is virtually the same as the Elizabeth's 2,082, and both travel at a service speed of 28½ knots. Moreover, QE2 weighs 58,000 tons (as against the Elizabeth's 83,000) and cost $70 million to build.

According to the Cunard Line, QE2 is "literally the first ship of her kind and size the world has seen, conceived from the start to capture the cream of both the North Atlantic traffic in the season, and the international cruise market in the winter." She is also the largest liner able to sail around the world via the Panama and Suez canals.

Unlike the Mary and the Elizabeth, QE2 is essentially classless. All passengers will be able to walk from one end of the ship to the other regardless of the fare they have paid. Three-fourths of all passengers will be accommodated in outside cabins, a higher proportion than any other transatlantic liner.

Cunard is especially pleased about the QE2 computer system, which it describes as "the most sophisticated" ever installed on a merchant ship. No bigger than a bedside radio, the computer will do everything from controlling machinery to keeping track of accounts at the ship's bar.

The interior design of QE2, from all reports, is eclectic. As John Malcolm Brinnin described them in "Holiday", the "popular" dining rooms contain "emblems of the imperial panache of years when Britannia's scepter was preeminent." Polished brass, lacquered wood, and patent leather fortify the impression.

On the other hand, the "timeless now" prevails in the "premium" dining rooms. "The dominant notion," Brinnin writes, "seems to be space-age elegance; anodized surfaces of a subtly golden cast, walls of supple brown leather, Mies chairs of black calf and chrome, mirrors with a smoky sheen."

Cunard already is collecting royalties on souvenirs bearing the QE2 crest. There may also be QE2 beer and QE2 whisky. And for those who would like to travel on QE2 but haven't the money, there is an LP record of the ship's sounds.

Try Turning The Other Fender

The National Safety Council quotes the following passage, which appeared in a recently published book, "The Automobile and Christian Morality," by Abbe Hubert Renard of France:

"Ye have heard, 'an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth.' Ye have heard it said 'sideswipe for sideswipe, right-of-way refused for right-of-way refused.'

"But I say unto you, 'Turn the other fender.' If someone gets in your way at a green light, let him be first at the next light. And whosoever shall try to pass thee imprudently, with a less powerful car, slow down to let him do it more easily.

"I say unto you, love your enemies, love those who drive dangerously. They are in peril."

Amen.

TV NEWSMEN UNINFORMED ABOUT SPACE MISSION

Our space craft is in the air now after a successful launch! I noticed on TV the U.S. craft is different now in front from earlier ones. But, then, of course, it is larger and made to hold three astronauts.

It's just as exciting as ever! However there are many aspects not familiar to laymen such as me after two years delay and three men aboard. Phoning the TV station the only one that carried pictures and news of the launching as it rode upward for over an hour this morning (Oct. 11), (WILS-TV), to ask about what I noticed (as stated above) I learned the one who answered knows little about Apollo Space craft! No one else in the station did either! Typical of what newscasters of other stations had said or showed — an unbelievable lack of knowledge. Only one did know but had not watched as I was doing! Baseball, football, elections, plus Vietnam were far more in the forefront. Amazing to me.

Now the Spacecraft is 7 is over Africa. Apollo 7 is the first USA aircraft to fly upward toward the moon. There are many innovations a mere layman cannot understand. Over the phone the TV man made me feel like a "grandmother" to ask the questions I did about Apollo 7 Spacecraft. He didn't know nor seem to care.

Apollo 7 is now sending its first message to earth. "Gentle ride" is the gist of their first comments heard.

Apollo 7 is now over Africa and the news commentator at the scene in Cape Kennedy is showing a copy of the first camera used on the first craft to take pictures.

They hope this time to transmit the pictures back to earth soon — long before landing back on earth!

From the little I saw on TV this morning, I noticed there is much to familiarize myself with due to many improvements and new matters to help the astronauts. Now one is walking around the space craft while two are lying down operating or observing — whatever their own particular job is. Only one, Schirra, has been on such a flight before this. It was exciting even to Schirra since it was reported his heart beat was a little over 90. Why shouldn't it be? Schirra knows the USA astronauts are proceeding on a dream of long years. May God speed with them.

BORN TODAY
Minnie Guggenheimer, music patron and chief fund raiser and colorful, idiosyncratic chairman of summer concerts in New York's Lewisohn Stadium, died at the age of 83 on May 23, 1966.

For more than 40 years, Minnie was a fixture in the musical life of New York City. Jack Paar once said she "looks like a Norman Rockwell grandmother, but occasionally talks like one out of Erskine Caldwell."

She was born Minna Schaffer in New York in 1882. She was educated at a succession of private schools in New York. Her family maintained a summer house in West End, N.J., where she met Charles S. Guggenheimer, a promising lawyer and friend of her brother, Edward. On April 22, 1903 they were married.

The Guggenheimer town house on Fifth Avenue often received distinguished visitors from the musical world, for Eliza Guggenheimer was a woman of considerable musical talent. Minnie's contribution to the artistic life of the Guggenheimer menage was sharply curtailed by her mother-in-law and sister-in-law.

Conductor Arnold Volpe enlisted her support for a plan to present outdoor concerts at the newly built Lewisohn Stadium on the campus of New York's City College. On June 23, 1918, Volpe conducted Sir Edward Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance March," opening the first concert.

Minnie's flair and instinct for showmanship — she was once described as having speech habits that were a mixture of Casey Stengel and Mrs. Malaprop — made her a favorite with the audiences.

She once announced the appearance of "Ezio Pinza Bass" instead of "Ezio Pinza, bass." The audience responded with a yell of rapture.

She ran the concerts virtually singlehanded, raising money for each season, engaging artists, handling negotiations with the unions and worrying about the weather.

Others born today include Franz Liszt, Sarah Bernhardt and Giovanni Martinelli, tenor.

DR. COLEMAN ... And Speaking Of Your Health

Two friends of mine, both executives, complain that when they go to bed they see flashes of light for a minute or two before they go to sleep. Each admitted that he was afraid to tell his doctor because he might consider it a psychological problem. One of them is so anxious about it that it actually interferes with his sleep. Please write a column on this so that I can send copies of the article to them and help relieve their anxiety. I enjoy your articles and the warm, friendly way you bring information and comfort to your readers.

Dr. Coleman

H., San Antonio, Texas

Dear H.: People of accomplishment in executive positions are just as afraid and fearful as are others in every field of activity and at all social and economical levels. The universal aspects of fear are recognized as a great leveler and must be treated with identical understanding if people are to be relieved of their depressing anxiety.

I am particularly interested in the fact that your friends are actually ashamed of discussing their problem with their doctor. I am sure many of my readers would say the same thing — all in the misguided impression that doctors either are poor listeners or tend to disparage "minor complaints."

I do not believe that there is anything like a "minor complaint." It is only after the cause of the complaint is found to be unimportant that the complaint may seem to have been minor. At the very time of the complaint, however, the combination of discomfort and the fear implied in it may very well make it a major one.

There is no basic rule that says that only cancer, leukemia, tuberculosis or a fractured leg must be given intensive consideration. Minor complaints need and deserve just as much consideration and perhaps more when they occur in the middle of the night when one is alone, fearful and does not want to disturb one's doctor for his reassurance.

Flashes of light that occur momentarily before going to bed may well be an after image due to staring at the light before turning it off. Dr. Walter S. Schachat, an eye specialist in New York City, gave me detailed information about the importance, or rather unimportance, of the occasional flashes you describe. The highly technical reasons would serve rather to confuse than to clarify. He said there is no doubt that rather to confuse than to clarify reasons for longstanding flashes of light due to changes within the eye ball and in the retina.

When a sudden flash, a fill or wandering spots are seen regularly and disturbingly, there is only one mature thing to do. That is, to bring this complaint to the attention of the doctor and the eye specialist who can, with the brilliant instruments now available, rule out the possibility of any important underlying eye disorder. Your friends deserve to be given the assurance that the occasional flashes of light they see do not mean that their eyesight is threatened or that there is any significant progressive disease that will affect their destiny.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH — There is a great art to being a good patient. That art incorporates rights and responsibilities in the doctor-patient relationship.

These columns are designed to relieve your fears about health through a better understanding of your mind and body. All the hopeful new advances in medicine reported here are known to doctors everywhere.

Your individual medical problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best.

The price of the land is $175,370.

The courthouse parking lot land is designated as Block one, parcel one of Urban Renewal, and the land below the bluff is designated as Block two, parcel one.

The Berrien County Building Authority has held an option on the land but had been unable to pay for it because a proposed $650,000 bond issue had been stalled for two years by a recently-ended court case. RENT APPLIES TO COST As required by urban renewal, the county building authority had been paying the City of St. Joseph rent for the land, which was included in the option price of $175,370, according to City Attorney A. G. Preston, Jr.

The county building authority will now have 60 days to pay the full purchase price to the city according to the contract terms.

The county building authority was recently given approval by the board of supervisors to seek a $850,000 bond issue instead of the previously proposed $650,000 bond issue to pay for land, furnishings and other costs.

If the county is unable to pay the full purchase price for the land within 60 days, the contract requires the county to pay the full price in addition to extra rent for the land.

In other business, the commission supported determinations by the city manager and the city inspection department on two properties following public hearings on each. The properties had been determined unsafe and public nuisances and should be demolished. They are located at 719 and 505 Church street.

No objections were voiced against the determinations and City Attorney Preston said notices had been served to Michael Maluk and Augusta Homelchuck for the property at 719 Church and to Alex Katz and Lawrence Marshall for 505 Church.

The commission authorized the attorney to convey the deed for a vacant alley on urban renewal block five to Barlow Brothers. Barlow Brothers had previously received deeds for the remainder of the block but not for the alley which used to run north and south on the block.

City fathers approved the first resolution to pave Kerth street from a point 209 feet east of the east line of LeRoy avenue east to the end of the existing pavement. Hughes Plastics, Inc., which owns 662.4 feet on the north side of the street or one side of the entire strip to be paved, had requested the paving by the city.

A supplemental agreement with the John G. Yerington company concrete contract was approved by the commission for the paving of Kerth street, LeRoy avenue, Division street, and the improvement of Ship street.

TREE LAWNS TORN UP

Commissioners C.A. Tobias, Jr. voiced the opinion the city should contact local utility companies concerning the disruption of tree lawns in the city. Tobias said the utilities have been tearing up the tree lawns and then "throwing the sod and dirt back in any old way." He said the city should demand that the companies put the tree lawns back into decent shape.

Mayor W.H. Ehrenberg said he would have the city manager check into the matter.

The commission paid bills totaling $3,661.14.

NO TIGER: Benton township fireman James Chapin holds a black kitten found under the instrument panel of a car yesterday. Chapin said a woman driver stopped at fire station at 1028 Territorial road yesterday to report an unusual noise coming from her car. Firemen, sure it was no tiger in the tank, began searching the car and found the kitten tucked away someplace under the dashboard. Chapin said the kitten is available for adoption. (Staff photo)

Important Meeting Coming For UCF

Board Awaits Report On Lagging Pledges

With United Community Fund still more than $43,000 from its goal, Campaign Chairman Robert W. Brooks today pointed to this Thursday as the next significant date in the current UCF drive.

The board of directors of Twin Cities Community Chest meets at 4 p.m. Thursday in the UCF office, 305 Lake boulevard, St. Joseph. Brooks has urged all campaign volunteers to turn in reports at the office by 3 p.m. on that day.

"We want to have as good a report as possible for the Chest board Thursday," Brooks said. "There still are a great many pledge cards that have not been turned in, and this is the week to do it."

The latest UCF report shows that the campaign now has $482,224 in pledges, or 91.7 per cent of the $525,577 goal. This is an increase of only $7,652 since the annual UCF achievement dinner was held last Tuesday night.

STRIKING DISTANCE

Four UCF campaign divisions still appear to be within striking distance of their goals, but the other four are lagging. The Women's division has the highest percentage, with 12,668 of its $13,000 goal, or 97.4 per cent.

The Professional division reports $20,141, or 95.9 per cent of its $21,000 goal. Public Services is in second place with 95.5 per cent, based on $22,010 in pledges toward a $23,500 goal. The Special Gifts division has $42,179 in pledges on a $44,500 goal, or 94.9 per cent.

Other division totals are: Industrial — $332,630 of a $359,008 goal, for 92.6 per cent; Construction and Building Trades — $8,464 of a $10,000 goal, for 84.6 per cent; Commercial — $21,303 of a $26,507 goal, for 80.4 per cent; and National Firms — $12,826 of a $18,100 goal, for 70.9 per cent.

Cultural Gap Keeps Them Back

Citizens Advisory Committee Told Of The Problems

Statistics on the plight of ghetto schools were presented last night to members of the citizens advisory committee of the Benton Harbor school district.

Ninety-six per cent of seventh graders entering Benton Harbor Junior high are below the national reading level for that grade, according to Winston Ferris, coordinator of instructional materials at junior high.

He explained that discipline problems arise because some students unable to cope with academic work can't sit through six periods a day without misbehaving.

Black students are a majority at Benton Harbor junior high. Ferris said the causes of the problems are economic, not racial. The same conditions can exist in poor white schools.

BEHIND AT START

A majority of children entering Calvin Britain school are behind when they start, said Principal Robin Campbell, and the school can't make up the difference. Last year's sixth grade tested an average of 1.7 grades below level.

The situation demands the assignment of top teachers and reductions in classroom loads, declared David Mullins, principal of Seely McCord.

The white suburban community of Fairplain is not completely "the land of milk and honey," Leonard Cassidy, principal of Fairplain East and Northeast. "There are some things in facilities and equipment we do not have."

Cassidy said children at the two Fairplain schools do "very well" on achievement, "but not as good as you might be inclined to think."

Cassidy spoke of the innercity school on 12 years experience as Seely McCord principal: "The pupil turnover creates all sorts of problems."

The educators were on a panel at the committee meeting in the high school library. They made several recommendations which they hope the committee will take before the board of education.

Some of the proposals will cost money. For others there is no ready answer. Among the points:

- An elementary curriculum study for innercity schools with the intent of closing the cultural gap.
- Recruitment of specially trained teachers.
- Home visitations by teachers to promote more parental cooperation.
- Aim for complete integration, children learn by working together.
- More nongraded classrooms where children work at their own level.

There was general agreement more emphasis is needed on reading and math.

Robert Payne, acting superintendent, said colleges are just beginning to train teachers for inner city schools.

Panel moderator was Don Pobuda, director of public relations and reimbursable programs.

SJ Twp. Firemen Join Drill

The St. Joseph township fire department conducted rescue operations in the simulated tornado disaster drill staged by Berrien County Civil Defense and Red Cross Sunday at Andrews university, Berrien Springs.

An account of the drill in yesterday's edition incorrectly identified the rescue team as from the St. Joseph city fire department.

Evaluation teams credited the township firemen with a good job in reaching Andrews university only 13 minutes after the initial alert. Frederick Beckman is chief of the St. Joseph township department which staged rescue operations including lowering a "victim" from the roof of a three-story building.

CHARLES GRAY

Gray Gets BH Junior High Post

Will Coordinate Student Affairs

Charles Gray has been named coordinator of student affairs at Benton Harbor junior high, acting Supt. Robert Payne announced today. Gray had been attendance officer for the school district for nearly three years.

Payne said his position at junior high is to develop better understanding and communication among students, teachers and parents. The job is similar to the one held by Sammie Rodger at senior high.

Gray was youth and program director for the Benton township branch YMCA for 12 years and is currently a Benton Harbor city commissioner.

No successor has been named to the post of attendance officer.

St. Joseph Put Back On 'Map'

The State Highway department has acted to at least partially restore St. Joseph to the map of US-33 after complaints by businessmen.

Signs pointing the way "To US-33" have been erected on Lincoln, Glenford and Washington avenues. They are intended to direct motorists around Hickory creek bridge that is closed for new construction on Niles avenue south of the city. The signs indicate the way to Hilltop road and Niles avenue (US-33) at the city limits.

Similar signs have been put up on Napier avenue to direct motorists into St. Joseph. When the detour to bypass the bridge was set up, it also bypassed St. Joseph.

A spokesman at the department's district engineer's office in Kalamazoo said there has been no change on the northerly approach where a sign says "US-33 Closed 6 Miles," and other markers point the way down M-139 into Benton Harbor. The spokesman said the department believes that traffic from the north is mostly local motorists who know the route.

BH Won't Let SCLC Buy Building

Request Too Late; Eyesore Slated For Demolition

The Benton Harbor city commission last night rejected an eleventh hour request by the self-described local chapter of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference for permission to buy a building at 684 Highland avenue now slated for demolition.

Appearing before the commission was Maurice Bishop, St. Joseph barber and resident of Benton Harbor, who says he is the leader of the local SCLC chapter. Bishop asked that the owner of the building, Ludwig Real Estate, be allowed to sell it to SCLC for use as a headquarters and activities center.

Mayor Wilbert Smith and Commissioner Virgil May told Bishop that the residents of that area have been complaining about the building's condition for several years and that the commission could not give it another reprieve.

MAYOR'S COMMENT

Mayor Smith said that he thought the SCLC request was coming "just too late" for the commission to approve the sale.

Commissioner May said that the building "has been a menace and an eyesore for years" and expressed doubt that a proposed raffle by SCLC to raise funds for the building's renovation would be sufficient for the job.

The commission had previously been scheduled to take bids on the demolition of the building last night and had held a public hearing two weeks ago paving the way for that purpose.

The commission voted unanimously last night to go ahead with the building's demolition and accepted a bid of $628 from Bilton and Bilton Excavating Co., but only after several minutes of debate between Bishop and Commissioners May and F. Joseph Flaugh.

Bishop said today that he has a verbal agreement with national SCLC headquarters in Atlanta, Ga., recognizing his unit here. The Rev. T. Y. Rogers, director of affiliates from Atlanta, is scheduled to visit Benton Harbor Oct. 31 to make a progress check on the local unit, according to Bishop.

He expects Rev. Rogers to bring a charter for the unit if such a document is required for formal SCLC recognition.

Bishop accused Mayor of a breach of faith with "black brothers" on the house matter and said May, a Negro, was not representing the black community.

URBAN RENEWAL In urban renewal developments, city treasurer Andrew Antonovich reported to the commission that the city had received two offers to purchase land owned by urban renewal.

Antonovich said that the YMCA had submitted an offer to buy a 9,433 square foot lot fronting on Michigan street for $7,472.20 to be used for parking facilities. The site is roughly that of the old Como Inn restaurant.

The second offer came from Fannie B. Frank of 337 Bradford road for a 6,750 square foot parcel at Colfax and Oak streets, between the Metro gas station and the Building Trades office for a proposed car wash.

The site is now occupied by what formerly was Vandongen's architectural office. Both offers were referred to the legislative committee.

DEPARTMENT STORE Commissioner Greg Longpre indirectly indicated that Federal Department stores may be one of those who will take up quarters in the proposed new downtown shopping center.

It had been rumored that Federal was contemplating opening a Benton Harbor store, presumably in the new shopping center, and Longpre gave the rumor added fuel.

Longpre told the commission that on a recent trip to Detroit he had spent considerable time making an inspection of three Federal sites there and was "very impressed" with the buildings and the stock.

The commission also voted to accept the low bid of the John G. Yerington Co. for the paving of Eleventh street, the widening of Paw Paw avenue and the installation of curbs and gutters on Broadway.

Yerington's bid of $54,197.30 was reportedly nearly 10 per cent less than what the city estimated the cost would be and commissioner Longpre said he was "extremely pleased" that Yerington's and the two other bids were so low. The other bidders were the West Shore company of Zeeland ($55,218.65) and the Titus company of Galesburg ($56,097.12).

OPPOSE FAST TIME In other business, the commission jumped into the time fight by adopting a unanimous resolution proposed by Commissioner Flaugh urging the defeat of fast time in the upcoming Nov. 5 referendum.

Commissioner Charles Gray cited two recent stabbings in Benton township and called for the city to urge that the county increase and expand its juvenile vocational-detention facilities.

In other business, the commission Set the salary of poll workers in the Nov. 5 election at $22.50 for chairmen and $20 for workers.

Accepted an offer to sell to urban renewal fixtures at Heier's Office Machines company at 204 Michigan street for $2,435.

Whirlpool Director Is Elected

New Member Also Heads Airline

Najeeb E. Halaby, president of Pan American World Airways, was elected a director of the twin cities' Whirlpool Corporation at a meeting of the board of directors of the company Monday.

Halaby joined Pan Am in September, 1965, and was elected president in May, 1968. Before joining Pan Am, he was administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency. He had been appointed to this post by President John F. Kennedy in 1961 and served until July 1, 1965, when his resignation was accepted with regret by President Lyndon B. Johnson. Halaby was one of the original group to submit proposals which led to the creation of the Federal Aviation Agency.

After World War II, he served in the fields of intelligence and foreign affairs and helped organize the North Atlantic St. Joseph firemen extinguished a small fire in a washing machine motor at the Farrell Bender residence, 912 Kingsley, St. Joseph at 11:14 a.m. yesterday.

SJ, Lakeshore School Employees Bolster UCF

Although the 1968 United Community Fund effort still is far short of its goal, a number of employee groups have shown dramatic increases in their giving records.

The latest such success story involves the faculties and staffs of the St. Joseph and Lakeshore public school systems. Lakeshore employees have more than tripled their 1967 giving to UCF, and St. Joseph's teachers and staff have nearly doubled their performance of last year.

In 1967, employees of the St. Joseph school system pledged $2,107 to UCF. This year, they set for themselves a goal of $4,000. Yesterday, the school reported it had reached its goal, with total pledges of $4,005. Mrs. Lillian Standen and Eugene Baker were co-chairman of the St. Joseph school solicitation.

At Lakeshore, school employees pledged only $195 in 1967 and had not made any gifts to UCF in 1965 and 1966. But this year, the Lakeshore Education Association took over the effort and turned in total pledges of $763. Don Myers, president of the LEA, was in charge of the UCF drive.

The giving totals in the two school systems were reported yesterday by Jay VanDenBerg, captain of the schools section of the UCF Public Services division.

Robert W. Brooks, UCF campaign chairman, today observed:

"This is the type of outstanding community spirit we need from everyone if UCF is to reach its goal—and right now we have only 91.7 per cent of our target of $525,557."

"We've asked everyone this year to pledge 10 per cent more than last year. Unless we have this type of support from the entire Twin Cities area, we'll be short of our goal. The efforts of the St. Joseph and Lakeshore school employees show that some of our citizens are willing to do even more than their share, and we take our hats off to them for the job they have done."

CASS COUNTY ENDING AMBULANCE SUBSIDY

One Year Contracts Expiring

Two Operators Will Now Be On Their Own

DOWAGIAC — Cass county will drop its $1,000 a month subsidy to each of two commercial ambulance operators in Dowagiac and Cassopolis effective Nov. 6, the Dowagiac city council was told last night.

Glenn Grady, Dowagiac supervisor, told the council that the county's one-year contracts with Donald Espick who operates the Dowagiac ambulance service and David Lavell who operates an ambulance in Cassopolis will not be renewed.

Grady said it is up to the ambulance operators to make it on their own. Both have received fees from individuals for ambulance service. The subsidy which totaled $24,000 per year was to cover uncollected bills and assist with operating costs.

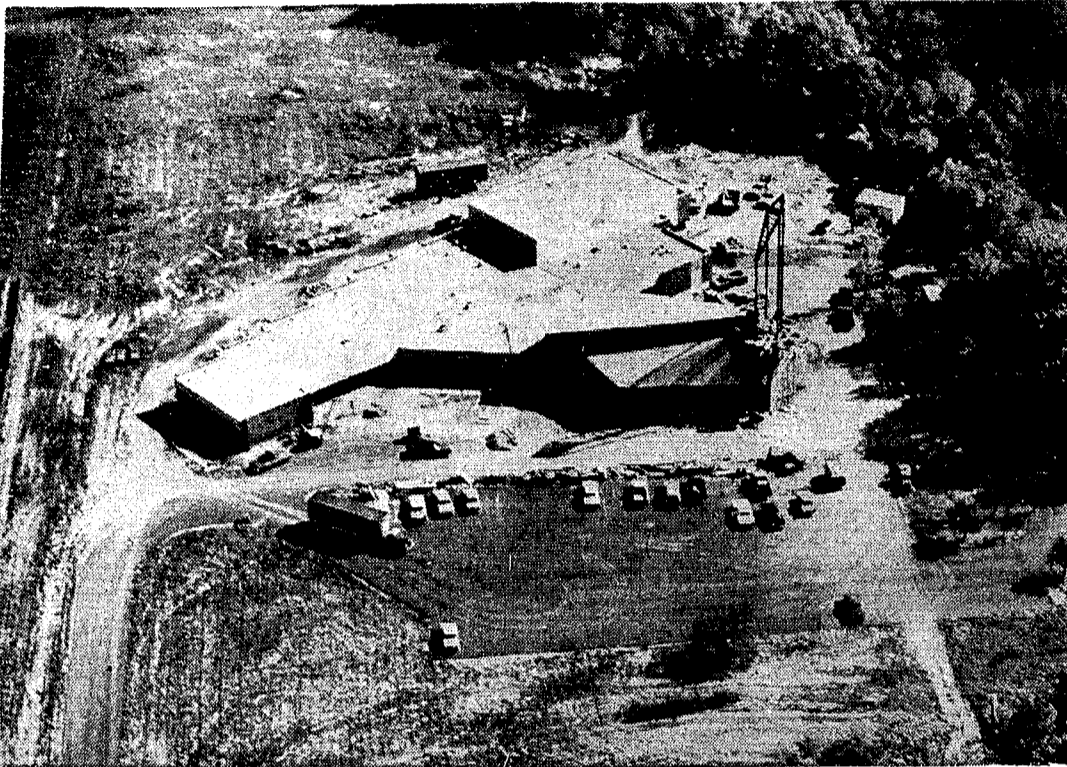

VOLUNTEERS DOING WELL

The rural county area is served by four volunteer ambulance services located at Sister Lakes, Twin Lakes, Edwardsburg and Union. The volunteer services are doing a good job and should continue to provide satisfactory service, Grady said.

In addition to the county subsidy, Dowagiac furnishes free space in the fire department for the ambulance plus a room for the attendant. The county provides free accommodations for Lavell's ambulance at Cassopolis.

The two ambulance operators can continue to operate in Dowagiac and Cassopolis but will no longer be subsidized by the county. The subsidy was granted to assist the ambulance operators after morticians quit providing ambulance service, saying that new state regulations made it impossible.

In other business last night, the Dowagiac council accepted

CHURCH NEARS COMPLETION: Construction on the new Christ Lutheran parish church and school is nearing completion as seen in this aerial photograph. with regret the resignation of Herbert Phillipson, Jr., as city attorney. No successor was named.

Phillipson, named city attorney by the city council when the new city charter went into effect in April 1964, had also been city attorney from 1955 to 1959. His letter said press of other business "has made it impossible and impractical for me to continue as city attorney. I would like to submit my resignation effective Nov. 1, 1968. I will continue to handle anything concerning the fire department that is still pending, at least through next month and I will be willing to assist your new city attorney in any way possible. May I express my admiration for this council which has the strength of its convictions."

Several councilmen lauded Phillipson's service as city attorney. His reference to assisting with fire department matters concerned the move to combine the fire and police departments into a public safety department. All firemen resigned after the ordinance was adopted by the council but the two top administrators and some firemen were rehired. The issue, which voters turned down a year ago, will be voted on again in the Nov. 5 election.

The council also granted the American Association for Retired Persons and Dowagiac Exchange club a one-year lease on the building at 416 South Front street. The two organizations asked a five-year lease but the council decided to continue on a one-year lease for a token fee of $1. The two organizations had renovated the building which at one time housed a youth center which folded up for lack of support and use.

NEWSPAPER SALE

The Exchange club also was given permission to sell newspapers on the streets Dec. 13 and 14 in an annual event to raise funds for Christmas projects and street flags. The club was given permission to install street Christmas decorations.

Mayor James H. Mosier appointed Mrs. Jane Winchester, Democrat, to complete the term of Meryl Bromley on the city board of election canvassers. The term expires in 1969. Reappointed to the board were Democrat Mrs. Marie Voorhees and Mrs. Marybelle Lutes, Republican, both to serve until 1971. The term of the fourth board member, Republican Mrs. Mary Morris, will expire in 1969.

Councilmen discussed at length but took no action on rates for water and sewer customers outside the city limits. They now pay 150 per cent of the city rate.

Bills and payrolls totaling $36,649.95 were approved.

Berrien Officials Get Pay Raises

Board Declines To Hold Salary Hike To 3%

The task of raising salaries of the elected offices of Berrien county is a ticklish matter almost every time it comes up.

It was no different Monday when the board of supervisors received a recommendation from its salary committee for some modest increases to apply when the new terms start Jan. 1.

Raises varying from $300 to $800 a year, as recommended by the committee, drew fire from Supervisor John McDonald of Niles township.

EMPLOYEES GET 3%

McDonald contended the elected officials should get no bigger raises than the county employees, for whom the board a week ago approved an across-the-board boost of three percent. There were a few exceptions, wherein several county workers got individual adjustments for "inequities."

The new salary levels for six elective offices, as recommended by the salary committee and finally approved by the board are:

Prosecutor, $13,900, up $400; sheriff, $12,000, up $800; clerk, $12,000, up $500; treasurer, $10,300, up $300; register of deeds, $9,300, up $300; drain commissioner, $8,800, up $300.

Except for the $800 increase for the sheriff, Salary Chairman Leslie Fischer pointed out the adjustments were not much greater than three percent, and in fact the boost for the prosecuting attorney is slightly below that percentage. Fischer explained the larger increase for the sheriff was to compensate in part for the fact a $2,500 salary paid the wife of the sheriff in the past for performing jail matron duties was being eliminated.

AMENDMENT DEFEATED
McDonald's amendment to hold all the boosts to the same three percent accorded county employees drew considerable support in a voice vote, but was defeated.

The raises recommended by the salary committee then were approved by a big margin, 43 to 2, with 3 members absent. The supervisors will hold their third session of this month on Oct. 31. Adoption of the 1969 county budget will be the main item of business.

Floyd Merrill, junior high principal, told the board the school plans to organize a junior high honor society and urged that something be done to build a new junior high school soon.

Senior high principal Fred Richardson reported that 40 adults has enrolled in the adult education classes which began sessions last night and that 45 students had enrolled in the Spanish class which was being held for the first time this year.

Fraternity House Burns

ADRIAN (AP)—Twenty students and the house mother escaped without injury Monday as fire gutted the second and third floors and collapsed the roof of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house at Adrian College.

One student, however, had to leap from a balcony to a tree to escape the 3:08 a.m. blaze. Several made it just before the roof collapsed.

The fire was the second at the fraternity house, firemen having doused a blaze in paint and turpentine stored in the basement after a 1:50 a.m. alarm. The paint and turpentine had been used in making homecoming decorations.

Cause of the second blaze was undetermined, but firemen said they suspected that the earlier blaze had traveled upward unnoticed through the inside of a well.

South Haven Hospital In Financial Squeeze

SOUTH HAVEN — Financial woes that have been attributed to the low profit allowed by the Michigan Blue Cross and federal Medicare and Medicaid programs continue to plague the South Haven Hospital authority.

Hospital officials revealed Monday night at the monthly board meeting that profits after three months of the current fiscal year will be considerably less than expected after officials of Blue Cross and the federal health plans make profit adjustments.

Preliminary reports show a $37,484.56 profit for the first three months, but hospital officials anticipate it will be trimmed by as much as 50 per cent.

PROFIT CEILING

The Blue Cross and federal plans allow only a two per cent profit after costs. The costs do not take into consideration major capital expenses or such things as unpaid accounts, however, hospital officials said.

The South Haven facility reported a loss of $6,541.21 during September as occupancy slipped to 73.2 per cent.

Nearly 50 per cent of the patients in the hospital are under the Medicare or Medicaid program, the board was told. On Monday there were 33 patients in the 94-bed facility who depend on the federal plan.

STATE MEETING SET

South Haven officials plan to attend a statewide meeting of hospitals during December at which time a united effort to have the profit increased will be launched.

Lack of profits weren't the only woes aired at the board meeting.

The personnel committee reported that several employees have demanded a review of the hospital's salary structure because of alleged favoritism.

Administrator Robert Traxler explained that some new employees apparently are receiving higher salaries than those who have been at the hospital for a long period of time. "There apparently has been some favoritism in the past," said the new administrator.

He said that a plan to trim personnel in some areas so that salaries could be upped but without increasing costs was being devised.

Traxler also reported on the food service which the hospital took over two months ago. He revealed that costs during September totaled $11,326.65 against an average monthly charge of $14,097.98 from the commercial food service whose contract was cancelled in August.

Dr. Joseph Cooper, head of the medical staff, explained a proposal from the Regional Medical Planning program to establish a coronary and intensive care unit at South Haven.

Dr. Cooper explained that federal funds are available for such a unit and requested permission to explore the program.

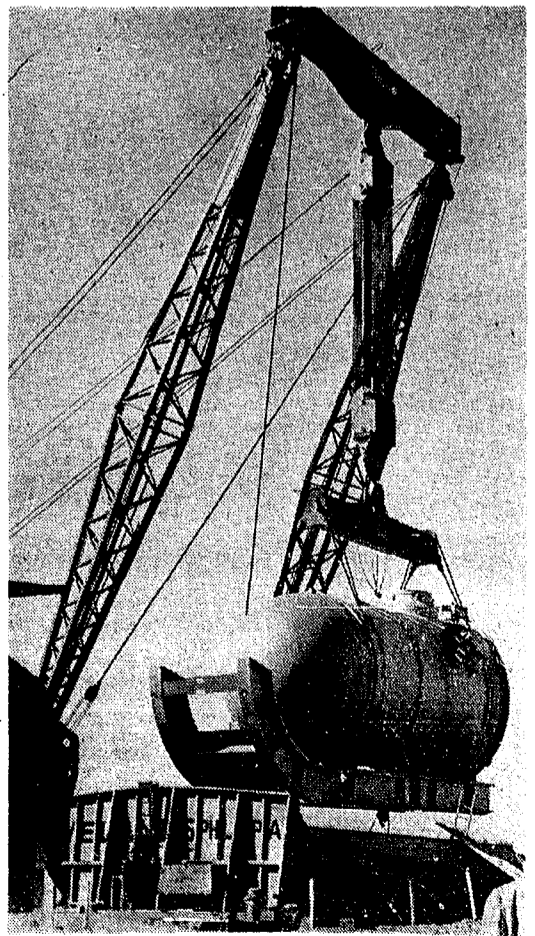

Traxler reported that members of the special projects committee will meet with representatives of four architectural firms on Nov. 7 to discuss ideas for the proposed construction of a long-term care unit.

Bad debts totaling $2,194.52 were charged off.

CRASH AT FENNVILLE CEMETERY: Workmen salvage piles of 10-pound cans of spiced peaches strewn over M-89 near Fennville Monday, while truck carrying load and auto came to rest on opposite sides of entrance to Fennville cemetery, after collision. Allegan county sheriff's officers said car driver, Mrs. Thomas Pelon, 22, of route 1, Fennville, an elementary teacher at Fennville, sustained injury to left leg, but was in good condition in Douglas

Community hospital. Truck driver Alvin Melvin, 45, route 1, Hartford, was reported unhurt. He was hauling 53,000 pounds of peaches to Michigan Fruit Cannery Fennville plant from Benton Harbor on M & L Leasing Co. truck. Mrs. Pelon, said officers, was cited for failure to yield right of way. Another Fennville teacher, Mrs. Thomas Sliwoski, sustained injured left leg last Tuesday in car-school bus accident. You Get One Chance, Youth Told

Burglar, 18, Gets Probation

Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns Monday released an 18-year-old convicted burglar on three years' probation with a warning that "you get one chance, and that's about it."

But the judge ordered Stanley Earl Fancher, of Route 3, Stevensville, who pleaded guilty to breaking into Sawyer Farmer's Exchange on July 29 to spend the first 30 days of his probation in jail.

Other conditions included fine and costs of $205 and maintaining a steady job.

Partes, beer, getting drunk and "bumming around with the wrong crowd" lead teenagers on the primrose path, Fancher said in answer to Judge Byrns' query.

Also Monday, five persons were arraigned before Judge Byrns.

Siegfried Zielke, 43, of 1408 South Manor drive, St. Joseph, offered a guilty plea but later withdrew it on a charge of carelessly discharging a firearm and injuring another, following the June 1 shotgun wounding of a neighboring 14-year-old John A. Romband, near Zielke's home.

Zielke first offered a guilty plea, then told Judge Byrns the shooting was accidental as someone raced at him in the dark and ignored an order to halt. His counsel, St. Joseph Atty. George Keller, then entered an innocent plea.

Bobby Joe Purser, 21, of Gary, Ind., stood mute and received an innocent plea to a break-in charge, but pleaded guilty to a related larceny in a building charge alleging he stole alcoholic beverages in a Wagner road home, Weesaw township, on Feb. 4, 1967.

Daniel A. Brown, 43, of 1035 Bishop street, Benton Harbor, stood mute and received an innocent plea to a statutory rape charge involving a 14-year-old in Sodus township on Aug. 23.

Don Lee Patton, 17, of 265 Michigan bluff, Benton Harbor, stood mute and received an innocent plea to a larceny in a building charge involving the theft of $84 from Keeter's Komer appliance store in Benton Harbor on Sept. 24.

Robert Henry Lewis, 25, of Buchanan, pleaded guilty to a charge of eluding traffic arrest on Sept. 14 in Buchanan.

Also Monday, Judge Byrns set bond at $3,000 for John R. Helbig, Jr., 23, of Three Oaks, and ordered a Michigan Department of Health examination for Terry Langford, 16, of 133 Ogden avenue, Benton Harbor, to determine Langford's competency to stand trial.

Helbig is accused of assault in the beating of two teenage girls in 1966 at Grand Beach, and Langford faces a charge of sodomy and another in connection with the July 21 fire bombing of a Benton Harbor home.

Arrest Girl For Fighting

Gloria Dean Smith, 17, of 794 East Washington street, was arrested by Benton Harbor police Capt. Keith Mills, last night for fighting with another girl at Washington and McCord streets.

The other girl, a juvenile, was petitioned to Berrien juvenile court. Capt. Mills said he confiscated a club from the 17-year-old girl who was booked on a charge of disorderly fighting.

Two other girls, ages 14 and 16, were arrested on charges of shoplifting at the J.C. Penney Co., Inc. store, 164 East Main street, and petitioned to juvenile court. Police said the two had skipped school.
